

Castle Pines Village Wins Top Golf Award

Colorado's most celebrated golf, Castle Pines Village, was named 2009's #2 Best Residential Golf Course in the U.S. by Golfweek Magazine.

For more than 20 years, Castle Pines Village has been the pinnacle of luxurious living along the Front Range of Colorado and this honor comes in the face of a great deal of new competition coming on the market.

"In the 20 years since Castle Pines Village was founded, no other community in the area has successfully rivaled the splendor of this project," said Jack Vickers, the original developer of Castle Pines Village who still oversees the development today. "Nature is your backyard and the city is at your feet."

At the center are two nationally celebrated Jack Nicklaus Signature Courses, which have been delicately carved out among towering rock bluffs and stands of grand ponderosa pines and gamble oak and continue to allure even the most seasoned golfers. Although different in design and character, both have received numerous awards and accolades over the years and remain the crown jewels of Castle Pines Village. Jack Nicklaus personally designed both of these magnificent courses to embrace the rolling landscape and outstanding views of this special property, while providing a strategic challenge for golfers of every ability.

"Rarely will one encounter a golf course as magnificent as those at Castle Pines," said Nicklaus. "I took great pride in developing two very different golf courses for both professional and amateur golfers alike."
